Fundraising, training, evaluation and project management

About me

With over 10 years' fundraising experience, I specialise in working with arts and heritage organisations to maximise their chances of fundraising success. Whether you need extra capacity to research funding sources, plan a campaign or write a fundraising strategy, or if you need support to write funding bids, I can help.

I am also a knowledgeable trainer and facilitator, offering bespoke training to develop your skills in all aspects of fundraising.

As well as fundraising expertise, I have considerable experience of evaluation and project management, including Heritage Lottery Fund projects. I can provide additional project management capacity on a freelance basis as and when needed, including evaluation services.

Give me a call to discuss how I can help.
